Foreword

'There's a barrel-organ carolling across a golden street
In the city as the sun sinks low;
And the music's not immortal; but the world has made it sweet
And fulfilled it with the sunset glow;

"And all around the organ there's a sea without a shore
Of human joys and wonders and regrets;
To remember and to recompense the music ever more
For what the cold machinery forgets . . .

"Yes, as the music changes
Like a prismatic glass,
It takes the light and ranges
Through all the moods that pass;
Dissects the common carnival
Of passions and regrets,
And gives the world a glimpse of all
The colors it forgets."

To the Class of Nineteen Thirty

The age in which we live is an age of corporate effort. It is not a new phenomenon; it was characteristic of the Middle Ages. The gildes, the universities, the cathedrals, political theories and religious doctrines were expressions of it. The critical spirit and the joy of life introduced by the Renaissance substituted for corporate effort a rugged individualism, the conquest of a new world nurtured this individualism and the philosophy of the eighteenth century consecrated it.

With the invention and introduction of machinery individualism began to decline. More and more corporate organization took possession of economic activity; more and more the theory of a mechanized society has come to prevail. The individual apart from an organized group counts for little. Hence the multiplication of clubs and societies and propaganda bodies of all sorts. Mass power has been increased but the joy of individual effort has been reduced. The voice that cries in the wilderness cannot make itself heard against the voice that speaks in the microphone.

The finest fruit of your education will be perhaps the ability on occasion to detach yourselves spiritually and intellectually from the mass consciousness; the ability to look at things through your own eyes and your own experiences; the freedom to criticize and reject for your own conduct those tendencies in society which do not command your approval; the power to tolerate and attribute worthy motives to those with whom you do not agree. A generous conformity to the prevailing modes of living does not involve a slavish acceptance of all the ideas and theories which lie back of them.

MISS DIALL

DR. VARRELL

MISS DODGE

Phyllis Abell "Phyl"

Efficiency, energy, a sense of humor, a magnetic personality, enthusiasm over every interest worth while, versatility—that's Phyl! Phyl makes a success of everything she undertakes—from News work and secretarial studies to poetry and fancy skating. We certainly wish Phyl every success and we know she'll make her mark in the world.

Sylvia Abelson

Sylvia's success depends to a very great extent upon her sincerity and enthusiasm. She puts her heart and soul into her work and play. She lives for Glee Club, cheers those around her with her delightful giggle, looks for a chance to help others in every sort of predicament. May her life's work in the dental field be as happy as she has made life for us here.

Katharine Stafford Adams "Kay"

There are many things for which '30 can be proud, but the most valued possession is our Kay. Since Freshman year she has served her class most efficiently and has now attained the highest goal that Simmons offers. She is respected and admired not only by her classmates, but by the student body as a whole. She maintains her dignity in a gracious and charming manner; and what jollier girl could you find than Kay, sitting cross-legged on the floor at night, feasting on bread and jelly, and bubbling over with laughter and fun?

Ruth Leona Altman

Dependable in all that she undertakes—whether it be work or play—and with a friendly spirit toward all. Is it any wonder that we like Ruth? To judge from the high standard of her work, one might think college was her only interest, but we understand that she finds outside affairs equally fascinating. Qualities such as these will lead to success in the library field, we know.

Evelyn Ames "Evie"

"Self-reverence, self-knowledge; self control—
These three alone lead life to sovereign power."

We say these words and we think of Evelyn—always calm and composed in situations where the rest of us struggle in vain for dignity. Capable in all she does, she gives an impression of power that might stand behind a throne.

Marion Ballou

If at some future date you visit her home—which we expect will be in the South—you will find all things to your liking—a fascinating partner for bridge, intriguing menus, charming decoration, and lots of fun. As a hostess and as a week-end traveller Marion is famous. Would you like an opinion of the latest theatrical success, the name of that gay new shop on Charles Street, or a description of the Atlantic Ocean seen on a warm June night? Ask Marion.

Doris Bartlett

What will Simmons do next year to keep the mail service in order without Doris? And what shall we do without her enthusiasm and her efficiency? One of Doris's greatest pleasures is going out to dinner and a show or playing bridge with the third floor contingent. She is always ready to go places and do things and we're never far behind when she's the leader.

Freeda Lillian Bates

Four long years of catching trains and trollies early or late have not daunted her fine spirit. It matters not whether it is a first hour foods class or an Academy dinner—she will be there, we know. Easy going and free from worry, but quiet, she will always make and keep her friends. Her favorite haunt is third floor of College where she may be sewing, cooking, or drawing,—not to mention talking. We hope that success will be with her in the long-awaited position in New York.

Beattie is a universal favorite; she walks away with all our votes for beauty, character, and brains. But this perfection is redeemed by her overpowering sense of humor and love of practical jokes. Beattie's pranks on Cypress Street made our freshman year a series of good times and much laughter.

It always looks well for a house to have more than one artist in the culinary line, and Brick House was proud to claim Gertrude for her last year. It seems wonderful to know some one who can take her place expertly both in the kitchen and in the settlement house. It is needless to say that she will be a success, for Gertrude has that quality within her.

Why is Bea so up in the air?
That's because she has just one care.
"Arthuritis" is her failing;
But strange to say, she is not ailing.
She certainly does prevent the blues;
Her cheery face proclaims the news—
This year she's sporting a diamond ring,
And it won't be long until wedding bells ring.

Marjorie Berry "Midge"

Midge is the "Berry" of that famous Newton crowd which has spread the fame of '30 so extensively. Her ready smile and charming personality completely captivated us from the first day of college. Midge has received quite a bit of fame for her exquisite penmanship and her brilliancy in law. We know that you can't help but be a success in anything you take up, Midge, but we know you'll be especially outstanding in law and all those new ventures you are planning.

And her interests are so varied that we wonder how she will ever settle down to steady work in a library. We expect to find her running a tea room or a newspaper or writing books on the side—if she isn't breaking in horses somewhere out west.

Eleanor Bodwell "Bodwell"

Is it any wonder that Eleanor with her big blue eyes and blond hair is away every week-end? Dartmouth, Brown, and Yale claimed her attention but now it seems Haverhill has a greater attraction for her. Is it because there are very fine dentists there? Some of Eleanor's high points are tact, executive ability, attractiveness, modesty, good disposition; in fact, she is a most remarkable person.

Edith Bowker "Dee"

For befriending lonesome Freshmen there's none better than Dee even when she's one herself. Capable? Who else could lead step-singing so well? Tactful to every one at all times, and one of those rare persons who just never lose their tempers. These are only some of the things which make Dee the very best of pals. But if you want to see her blush, just ask, "Where are we now?"

Is she witty, intelligent, and clever? We'll say she is—and more besides. We have heard that she's appealing and we know that she's congenial. We have found her an ideal companion in classes, sports, and social events for the past four years; and we only hope that after graduation she won't go too far away.

If you want some one to sympathize with your mood, to discuss a book, a play, the movies, or what is paramount in your mind—your best boy friend—Sara is the one to look for. Her keen understanding and receptive mind will be great assets in whatever she attempts to do in the future.

Leah, the little girl from Schenectady, is always ready to express an opinion and has surely been enthusiastic about every school activity. Frances Louise Brodie "Fran"

The editorial columns of the News have been an unfailing proof of Frances' literary ability, but this is only one of her many accomplishments. She has been able to keep several men going at once, stay at the top in all her library classes, and has had plenty of time for frequent visits to Walpole. Sparkling brown eyes and a merry laugh contradict the cynical outlook she has on things in general. We wish her every success in her chosen filed and all through life.

Winnibel Bronson "Winnie"

With the advent of our Senior year, Winnie sprang into the limelight. Competent in her position of class treasurer and almost too conscientious as fire chief at Appleton House, she still finds time to be Dottie's capable assistant when it comes to "Mic" and having your picture taken. All this practice is going to make her just that much more valuable in the future as a secretary to some manufacturer.

It is always easy to find Brownie in a crowd—her golden hair serves as a mark of distinction. She is a person blessed with a wonderful disposition—as golden and as sunny as her locks. She's never cross;—not even when she has to go to the Union to work, or when someone borrows her best hat.

She is only five feet two, and in consequence her dignity is continually being wounded by the ignorant ones who ask if she is a freshman. Bunny is a blonde whom every one prefers. Dancer and actress, she is in demand for every show or play; business woman and politician, she is drafted for many committees. Newman Club finds her aid indispensable in all important matters. The men simply cannot get along without her. Some lucky man will soon have her for his secretary, but we all wager it won't be for long.

Margaret Allene Bush "Peggy"

We no longer wonder what South Dakota is like—we hope it is like Allene. This black-eyed sprite who has but lately come among us is already a great favorite. Friendliness and an intense enjoyment of life are her outstanding characteristics. She has a broad grin and a wave of the hand for everyone. Simmons wishes she had come sooner—and West House vainly tries to imagine what it would have done without her.

Joan Bush

Joan is always happy, and keenly alive with a decidedly individual outlook on life. As a science student, she has an analytic mind, and delves into every problem to find the reason why, whether it be cats or quantitative chem. Her outstanding characteristics are sincerity and friendliness, and a desire to be helpful. It is greatly due to Joan that Glee Club has been so successful. She has brought to it a beautiful voice, a deep interest, and her business ability.

Marie Elizabeth Callanan "Cal" "Betty"

"Made up of wisdom and of fun"

Cal's wit and sense of humor are bright spots in the dull grind of Secretarial Training. Her opinion of the lot of a secretary is original, to say the least. But in spite of her gloomy predictions, we are sure that when opportunity knocks, Cal will be right there. "God bless my soul," says Cal ironically, and the rest of us earnestly hope that all those "blessings" are forthcoming for the future.

Edith Carlson "Ede"

This sophisticated and versatile girl from Chicago is full of surprises. One minute you hear her singing those irresistible blues here in Boston; the next, you turn your back and quick as a flash she has disappeared—to Newton probably. Ede is somewhat of a connoisseur of unusual editions and of perfumes, too. Poised and charming, she knows the secret of how to live well.

Mabel Carlton

Blonde hair, blue eyes, and small
She's the best dancer at the ball.
In her studies she does well,
As all her good marks surely tell.

And one for whom great friendships grow.

Mary Eva Chase "Chase"

The home of Eva Chase—haven for distressed dormitory freshmen! Many of us will remember forever her kindness out on Cypress street when we wanted to dance until the wee small hours. And the blind dates she could produce! Her parties, bridges, luncheons! Not only is she an artist but a cook as well. The kindest heart in the world beats under those slim shoulders so far from the ground. And in her big brown eyes there gleams a spirit of mischief that will never die. Genius and charm, say we, describe her best.

Check is small and dainty and sweet; and she accomplishes everything she sets out to do with a characteristic charm and ability that are enviable. We wonder how she is able to apply herself so assiduously to such prosaic things as examinations, when her mind is in Pittsburgh, trying to decide between blue and yellow pots and pans, and weighing the respective merits of criss-cross curtains and tie-backs.

This is quite conclusive."

However, those of us who are fortunate enough really to know Gert are well aware of the fact that she has quite decided views of her own. And isn't it fun to see her warmed to her subject? Why, she fairly bubbles, and the words come tumbling out all in a blue streak.

Dorothy Frost Colburn "Dot"

Dot playing guard in basketball with Laura and Mike and Roz—Dot, part of that glorious backfield combination in hockey—Dot passing off her life-saving—Dot hurrying back from office practice on Wednesdays to play her cornet in the orchestra—Dot rushing down to teach Americanization to the foreigners in the North End. Keeping through it all her calm, cool air and her sense of humor, a joy in her work, and a love for fun.

Dora Rosamond Houghton "Do," "Dode," "Dodie"

The results of a four-year study: In class, found to be quiet and attentive but able to carry on a lengthy correspondence. Outside of class, thoughrful and considerate, always with a kinder word to say or a kinder thing to do than anyone else, ready for fun at any time, and sharing that fun with all who know her. Conclusion: She's the very best sort of friend, and we all hope she'll never go any further away than Walter Reed.

The Prize Poem, 1930

ON A GREEN-BRONZE PAN

Phyllis Abell, '30

There was no need to tell me this was Beauty—
To analyze and theorize,
And try to make my untrained intellect
Follow your intricate tracings
Of pattern and conscious rhythm.
"This line—see how it complements
And brings out the line of the shoulder;
The curve of the tree-stump here—"
But I was off to infinity;
I had caught the spirit, without the rules.

Your green-bronze Pan
Gave never a thought to his patterns;
See—he sits half-twisted there on the stump,
His head turned quizzically this way,
A faint ironic smile quirking his clean-cut lips,
As if to say to man—

"Well, I was your first god—
And what of it?
Gods you have had of every kind
Since me. And philosophers and teachers
And religion, and gods and more gods.
And are you better off now
Than I here, my pipe clutched to me,
With my goat-hoofs that dance
To my own sweet, wild music?
With my woods and my hamadryads?
Now you try to put me in a pattern,
To make me into rules,
Together with your religion and art.
I was your first god.
You have had many gods—
And what of it?
Have you found a better god than I?"

To Student Government we owe a sense of responsibility and a spirit of cooperation, since it is the only organization of which every student is a member.

Student Government, though formal in sound, is not in reality; for it has far greater possibilities than those concerned with rules and regulations. It is a stepping stone for the future; it gives us a conception of self government and prepares us to take part in the political affairs of the country; and it provides a penetration into that spiritual realm where we find the force which makes us want "to live up to the finest, the truest, and the best there is."

Each step is a step forward in Student Government, and is not only advantageous to the individual, but to the college in creating a spirit of loyalty and love. It is an organization for which we are proud to be striving.

Dormitory Council

Chairman . . . . . Doris Franklin
Secretary . . . . . Frances Ford-Smith

Dormitory Council consists of the chairman who is vice-president of Student Government, a house chairman from every college house and the house seniors. The council meets bi-monthly to discuss anything connected with the dormitories and to carry on routine affairs. Recommendations from council go to Student Government Council and Conference Committee for final report.

The committee, composed of four faculty members and three students, is the last step through which recommendations from Student Government Council, Dormitory Council and Judicial Board must pass before they go into effect.

This is an important committee, since it is the only one where members of the faculty and student body can consider together problems affecting the students and the college. The opinions of the faculty are of great value to the students in making their decisions. Student Government appreciates the cooperation of the faculty members in giving so much of their time and service.

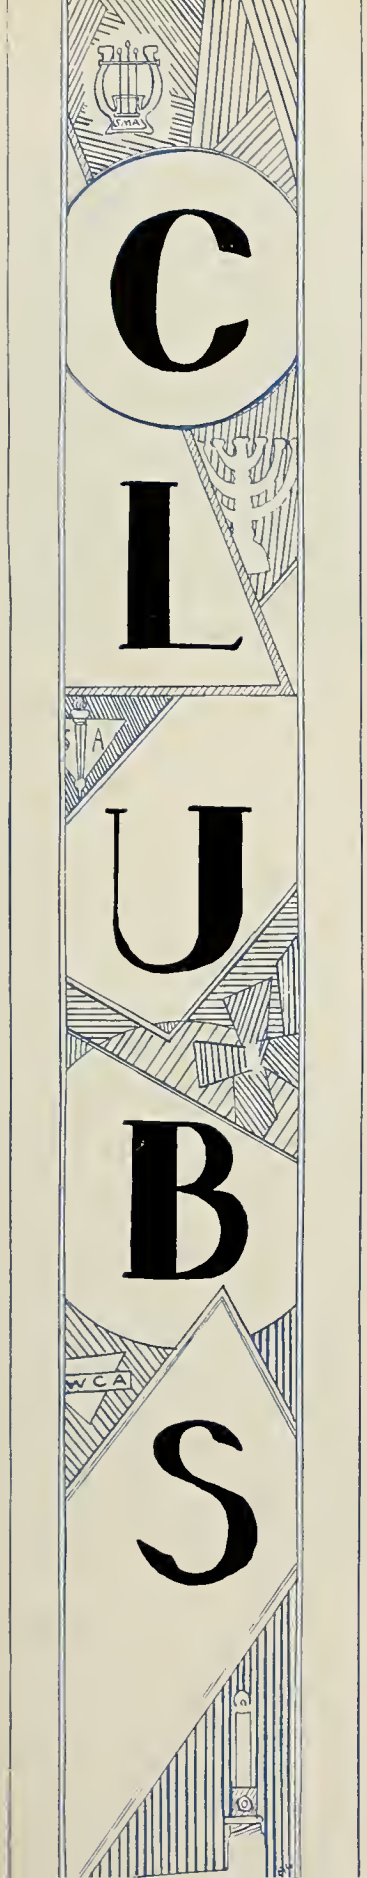
Judicial Board

Chairman . . . . . SHIRLEY HATHAWAY
Secretary . . . . . GRETCHEN LORENZ

Judicial Board, as its name implies, is the judiciary branch of Student Government. This body deals with cases in which an academic or dormitory rule has been broken, passing its recommendations to the Faculty Disciplinary Committee if the case is academic, or to the Conference Committee if the case is a dormitory one. They in turn act on the recommendation of Judicial Board when the case is brought up and the girl is given a chance to defend herself.

The Board consists of nine members: the four class presidents, a Sophomore and a Junior Representative of Student Government Council (elected by the Council) and the chairman, a Senior elected by the student body. The President and Vice-president of Student Government are ex-officio members.

Judicial Board does not exist solely for the purpose of enforcing rules; it aims also to enlarge our ideas of responsibility so that we may be more worthy of the privilege of self-government.



CLUBS

Miriam Thompson Kathryn Smith

Academy

President . . . . . Miriam Thompson
Secretary-Treasurer . . . . . Kathryn F. Smith

The Academy is one part of our college life that is far removed from our technical existence, and its chief aim is to foster a true spirit of culture apart from actual utilitarian ends. Academy would like to see here at Simmons a real harmony of art and industry that would produce a type of educated woman of real service to the community. To bring about this perfection of balance is the goal toward which Academy is constantly striving. The needs of a bread and butter existence furnish an ever present stimulus for the practical element. We are of the opinion that "man shall not live by bread alone."

A good many of our meetings have been addressed by faculty members, who have many interesting things to say outside their respective classrooms. One meeting a term is open to the college, and parents and friends are cordially welcomed. The social element was encouraged by the Academy dinner, a small bridge, and a theatre party.

For the past few years Academy has been dreaming about affiliation with Φ B K, which seems at present a faraway prospect owing to the technical nature of our college curriculum; but we are not without hope for future generations of Academicians. As ideas of college standards are constantly changing and broadening, ideals of scholastic standards may enlarge their scope to become more inclusive and to fit the altered programs. Latin is no longer the only life-giving essential of culture, and so the story goes in the academic world as in our personal, transitory life. Out of this change may evolve Academy's place in the sunlight of scholastic achievement.

Ellen Richards Club

President . . . . . HELEN HAWES
Secretary-Treasurer . . . . . LOUISE WYMAN

The Ellen Richards Club was founded in 1920 to promote interest in Science and good fellowship among the students of the School of General Science. The constitution has been modified this year in such a way as to admit students at the end of their sophomore year instead of at the beginning of their junior year. Membership has also been extended to seniors in the School of Household Economics who have taken certain courses in the School of General Science.

Ellen H. Richards was one of the earliest women to study problems in sanitation and dietetics. The club is attempting to carry on her ideals and her spirit by bringing people together so that they may discuss things of current scientific interest. Several prominent speakers have been generous in giving us of their time. The club has co-operated with the Boston Tuberculosis Association and the American Red Cross in their campaigns for funds.

Among the social activities we have engaged in have been the initiation of new members, the picnic at Hammond's Pond, the Birthday Party, and a meeting at which several graduate members told of their work. We have had a very happy and successful year; and in turning the work over to the Juniors and the Sophomores, we hope that they will have as much pleasure in their club relationships as we have had.

Unity Club

President . . . . . Mary Southworth

Vice-President . . . . . Ann Kimball

Secretary-Treasurer . . . . . Carol Klein

Unity Club aims to bring together the girls of Simmons who have liberal religious views in order that they may become better acquainted through discussion and through social gatherings. Whenever the members wish, a speaker is asked to talk upon some subject of common interest. This year we have had several very enjoyable teas; and at our regular meetings we had two exceptionally interesting speakers.

Chairman . . . . . Helen Pickett
Secretary-Treasurer . . . . . Eleanor Taapken

The purpose of Christian Science Organization is to offer to those so desiring it an opportunity to learn about Christian Science. It has brought to its members this year a greater realization of friendship and cooperation, and an increased love of friendship for all the students.

Testimonial meetings are held on each Monday of the college year to which all students and faculty are welcome. One lecture on Christian Science is given each year by some member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

Newman Club

President	Mary Sullivan
Vice-President	Rosamond Lynch
Secretary	Eleanor Wight
Treasurer	Mary Bourne

The Newman Club, named for the revered Cardinal, is the organization which brings together all Catholic students at Simmons and offers them religious, educational, and social opportunities. The Club is a member of the National Federation of College Catholic Clubs, and its members have been active this year in the provincial work of this organization.

The open meetings, the teas, and the formal dance of Newman Club are affairs to which the entire student body may look forward and enjoy.

The Newman Club of Simmons has always been successful, and we hope it always will be, in its attempts to maintain the high ideals of its patron, Cardinal Newman.

Menorah Society

President . . . . . Mollie Wantman
Vice-President . . . . . Ida Slater
Secretary . . . . . Adeline Horwich
Treasurer . . . . . Ivy Berger

The Menorah at Simmons is affiliated with the Intercollegiate Menorah Association and the Boston Menorah Council. It is open to all students and is organized for the study and open-minded discussions of Jewish culture, ideals, and thought, because we believe that through such free and open-minded study, students can arrive at intelligent opinions and convictions regarding Jewish problems.

Through the study circles and lectures it has stimulated a deeper and keener interest in things Jewish.

The Menorah Society also aims to develop closer friendship and loyalty among its members, and has sponsored many activities of a more purely social nature.

The Simmons Musical Association

President . . . . . Joan Bush

Secretary-Treasurer . . . . . Astrid Lorentzson

Business Manager . . . . . Elizabeth Bliss

Librarian . . . . . Janet Ellis

Leader . . . . . Mr. David Blair McCloskey

During the past three years, the musical activities of the college have presented several successful innovations in college life, but this year has been more progressive than ever. There is an embryo string orchestra, now under the direction of Mr. McCloskey; and a jazz orchestra which appeared publicly at Dorm Government Party and has played at many other college functions. The Symphony Hall venture was so successful last year that it was repeated this year in cooperation with Dartmouth College Glee Club. We are all looking forward to singing again this year at Simmons night at Pops. Lastly, a record of two numbers by the Glee Club was made, which will preserve for posterity a record of our progress.

Home Economics Club

President	Veronica Roycroft
Vice-President	Marion Crowther
Secretary	Edith Bowker
Treasurer	Elizabeth Ricker
Chairman of Food Sales Committee	Laura Soule

The Simmons Home Economics Club aims to acquaint the undergraduates with the business world and the various vocations open in the home economics field. This is accomplished throughout the year by having speakers at the meetings who relate their varied and interesting experiences. Also, the club is affiliated with the Massachusetts, New England, and American Home Economics Associations, and each year it sends a member of the Junior class to the annual National Home Economics Convention. This year the convention is to be held in Denver, Colorado.

Juniors and Seniors in the School of Household Economics automatically become members of the club. The club is unique in that there are no dues; money is raised by food sales in the dormitories and at Hall Table, and by a formal dance.

Simmons Debating Society

President	Ruth Porritt
Vice-President	Clara Cleaves
Secretary	Ruth Tartakoff
Treasurer	Ruth Gersin
Chairman of Program Committee	Helen Loeser
Faculty Advisors	Miss Wilson
	Mr. Watkins

The Debating Society, started last year, has grown and advanced admirably. Three formal debates upon subjects of school and current interest were held, and bi-weekly informal debates continued throughout the year. An optimistic view for the future of the club is held by all its members; for they keenly appreciate the value of debating as a form of training and of entertainment.

Forum

Chairman, CLARA M. MCDONALD

Today we live in a world, not in a local community or even in a nation. We should be eager to know what is going on beyond our immediate vision. In our busy social life that is the function of Student Forum.

Dr. Varrell keeps us in touch with the world through his current events group. We are also indebted to him for many interesting pictures and the accounts of the trip abroad that he took last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Rankin have both helped to make India a very real place to us, instead of a mysterious land half way around the globe.

The better we understand the other countries of the world, their people and their problems, the nearer we come to a realization of the great problems facing all mankind; and perhaps out of our deeper knowledge shall come truer wisdom.

The Simmons Young Women's Christian Association sets for its goal a "full, creative life" for all students of the college. With access to the hospitable rooms of the Metropolitan Student Headquarters we have been able to meet each Friday afternoon at tea before a blazing birchwood fire among pleasant surroundings and friendly associations. During Lent our Simmons day became intercollegiate and several speakers of note came to us, bringing inspiration and a desire for service.

Other notable events of the year were the traditional party for the Freshmen, their first week-end in the dorms; a houseparty during the fall when cider, hot popcorn and the bright foliage were extremely popular; participation in intercollegiate conferences at Cedar Hill and at Poland Springs; and Cabinet dinners at Mrs. Johnston's and Mrs. Jack's.

Metropolitan Headquarters and the secretaries, Miss Dinsdale and Mary Reynolds Palmer have been particularly helpful and cordial. Vesper services, suppers, swimming, bowling privileges, breakfast table discussions, all show the extent of their willing spirit of cooperation and encouragement—to say nothing of the many emergencies when they gallantly came to our rescue.

Discussion groups with various themes of interest, such as industry, inter-race problems and religion have proved their worth and now form a regular part of our program with the help of competent leaders. Several social service projects were successful, particularly volunteer settlement service and visits to Welcome House.

All told, our year has not been fruitless, and we are looking forward to another year full of promise.

Secretary	Eleanor Ricker
Treasurer	Gertrude Tyler
Chairman of Dramatic Committees	Leslie Wetterlow
Faculty Advisor	Miss Lansing

This year has been a very successful one for Dramatics Association in every way. Perhaps the biggest gain over other years has been in membership; for there are almost fifty more girls belonging this year than there have been for the past four years.

In December a large audience was delighted with the production of "The Goose Hangs High". This was acted by the members of the three upper classes; and in addition to our old stand-bys, there were a few new actors. The play was one that appealed to the audience—particularly at that time of year; the atmosphere of college added a new note of interest; and the acting was all that could be asked for. In February came the Competitive Plays, all of interest and all well acted. The prize went to the Class of 1931; and the individual prize for the best acting was awarded to Ruth Bradley. The Competitive Plays are for the members of the three lower classes. The Seniors are saving their talent for the Senior Play which will come at Commencement time.

During the year of 1929–1930 the News has followed a three-fold policy. It has aimed, first of all, to keep in touch with and report the activities of the many different organizations at Simmons. By having every school, as well as many of the clubs, represented on the Staff, it has formed a sort of reportorial network touching both undergraduate and graduate activities.

The second part of the policy has been to have the thought of the college on matters of both local and general interest freely expressed through the Editorial and Feature pages.

The third point has been to broaden the scope of the News so as to include digests of events of world importance, as well as activities and happenings of especial interest in and about Boston. In this way an attempt has been made to have the News not merely a breezy little weekly, but a worth-while part of college life.

During the year the paper has been increased from a fairly large four-page sheet to a slightly smaller eight-page paper. The Staff feel that they have had splendid cooperation from both students and faculty in helping the News to "grow up."

The Simmons College Review, because of its compound nature, should be of interest to us all. It serves a twofold purpose—that of reporting corporation, college and alumnae news,—and that of publishing the literary efforts of faculty, students and graduates. This year the Review has again sponsored a poetry contest, with its usual success and some very delightful results. Through the efforts of the Staff the Review unites us all in one common interest—Simmons College and all that pertains to it. It is published six times a year and is sent to all alumnae as well as to all undergraduates.

Microcosm

Well, now we've gone and done it; but "if anyone had told us four years ago, that when we came to Simmons College" we'd undertake a job like this, we would have laughed. The Mic Board of 1928 decided to retire to the Charles River Basin after their work was over. We, too, are about to leave public life; but worn out with our efforts, we shall only cross the Fenway to drown our weariness in the depths of Muddy River. There you may search for us—in the great, grey, greasy stream.

The following list should show in part why we are leaving:—

How is "Mic" coming along?
I'll get those write-ups in to-morrow surely.
Is it too late to sign up for a "Mic"?
My proofs were awful, simply awful—what shall I do?
How is "Mic" coming along?
May I add this to my list of activities?
When will "Mic" be out?
O, my pictures were terrible; I'm so disgusted.
How is "Mic" coming along?
You're the Editor of "Mic", aren't you? What fun it must be . . .
Did you make any money on the dance?
How is "Mic" coming along?
What does the Business Manager have to do?
Could I possibly add this to my list of activities?
Can I sign up for a "Mic" now—or is it too late?
How is "Mic" coming along?
Why does "Mic" cost so much?
It must be lots of fun to go after ads. Is it?
How is "Mic" coming along?
I forgot today was pay day. What ever shall I do?
How is "Mic" coming along?
How is "Mic" coming along?
HOW IS "MIC" COMING ALONG?

Here it is; you can judge for yourselves,—while we make our exit as gracefully as possible.

This year the Press Board is an active and energetic organization. Better facilities for running the Board have been provided by the Editors' Room in the New Wing, with its blackboard, telephone and typewriter.

The Press Board Bulletin Board is an interesting spot in the college and every one is urged to notice the clippings and pictures posted there from time to time. What the Board most needs is the cooperation of the entire college, both in notifying the reporters of news and in being willing to pose for pictures.

Again the Simmons College Athletic Association is able to report a very successful year. Even the lack of the hockey field could not discourage us. We substituted for the usual fall sport outdoor basketball, and with excellent results. Many of our former hockey stars came out for practice; and we hope they did not regret too deeply the necessary change in schedule. We extend our sympathy to the Seniors; for they had to sacrifice their last chance to make the hockey squad, but the rest of us can look forward to next year and hope that the grass will grow. Outdoor basketball was so successful that we hope it may not be given up. Our indoor basketball season ended with the Seniors in possession of the cup. Leslie Wetterlow was voted to be the best individual basketball player both indoors and out. Life Saving this year was given on Thursday afternoons at the Y.W.C.A. pool. This meant that freshmen were allowed to attend the lessons. Archery, riding, fencing, golf, and tennis have been popular; and under the supervision of Miss Diall and Miss Leach and the managers, these sports were well organized and well attended. Track, as usual, ended with Track Day and all its glory.

Certainly, The Simmons College Athletic Association offers a wide enough variety of sports for each girl to find somewhere one in which she can participate and through which she can seek recreation, at the same time making many friends.

Freshman Frolic

"WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG"

After suffering under the burden of all our new won dignity for most of freshman year—what a relief— to have a freshman frolic. On the afternoon of Track Day, a glorious sunny day in May, we met in the back yard of college, and for the whole afternoon behaved as suited our tender years. "London Bridge is Falling Down" and "The Farmer's in the Dell", "Ring Around a Rosy" and "Three Deep" were played. "Drop the Handkerchief", "Leap Frog" and "Follow the Leader". Some of us were very, very young—still in baby clothes; others were older and had on our best rompers. A few of us were quite grown-up—eight or nine years old, I guess—with hair ribbons and curls or in our best Sunday suits. Someone let in a few awfully dirty newspaper boys, and we were afraid they would be rough; but they weren't. We had a wonderful parade and gave prizes to "Bunny" Levin who had on a pair of blue checked overalls, and to "Bobby" Beers, one of the Park Street newsboys. Then we had an entertainment in Room 116. It seemed rather like desecration to romp and play in that room where we had listened so politely to Biology G and Housebuilding all year and where the Seniors came for Soc. and Gov't. It was an awfully clever stunt, all about a dance in a lunatic asylum. Peg Fernald was in it and Mary Wright, Eleanor Bodwell and Doris Bartlett. After the entertainment we had the "party"—hot dogs and ice-cream cones and lots of lolly-pops. Kay Adams was responsible for the frolic, and we wished we could stay forever. We went home that night rather tired and put away our "childish things" with a sigh—maybe it was because we were weary after a long day out of doors; probably we had all eaten too much; and maybe perhaps we were just a little bit sorry for ourselves, thinking that our freshman days, those long, light-hearted days of carefree fun, were so nearly over.

Track Day

1927

Do you remember the month of May when we were freshmen? Every day was rainy, but one—and that was Track Day. Early morning showers had washed the dandelions in the back yard and they shone brighter than ever when we came out to do our stunts. We showed the upperclassmen and every one else how to Wring the Dish Rag, how to impersonate a Jack in the Box, a Walking Chair, a Russian Bear, and an Opening Rose. Then we made some quite lovely pyramids and did some exercises that were very unusual. We won the Archery cup and the organized sports cup, too; altogether we were quite the star performers.

1928

Sophomore year came, and before we knew it, here was spring and Track Day again. This year we won the organized sports cup again and also the song competition. Sally Bowditch had the second best individual score and Doris Franklin won the individual archery cup. Emily Newlin wrote the words to our song; Lillian Goldstein wrote the music.

"Rally now with praises ringing;
For the song we sing today
Extols the strength of Simmons
Where the blue and the gold holds sway.
Rah-Rah
Up and down the field it echoes;
Can't you hear the voices clear?
When day is done, our goal is won,
A grand old year.

Rally now with colors flying
In this merry month of May;
All honor to John Simmons
And his school on the dear Fenway.
Rah-Rah
We will keep the plan he started
And make all his dreams come true.
Let us raise on high to greet the sky
Our Gold and Blue."

1929

Junior year, and a big day this time—bigger than ever before. We didn't win anything special, but we came in second for the organized sports cup; and we had an awfully good time just doing things. After the events of the morning we had the S. A. A. picnic—sandwiches and eggs, lemons and peppermint sticks, and potato chips. And in the afternoon we went to Wellesley for "Play Day". This was an entirely new experience, and one that we enjoyed very much. We made some new friends, and saw some old ones, and altogether had a jolly good time, playing games, singing songs, and looking the place over.

Sophomore Luncheon

A Saturday in February—the Refectory a dream of red carnations and gray squirrels, ferns and much excitement—the thrill of finding our rings hidden beneath the greenery at the end of long white ribbons—delicious food, and the climax of it all, our icy mascots seated on a slab of maple walnut cream that melted in your mouth. Charming waitresses—our faculty members and Miss Mesick—the fun of singing to them all and to the others who made the luncheon so successful. The delightful entertainment that followed the meal—Emily Newlin's poems, Mary Wright's recitations, and the clever cartoons of Mr. Allan Halliday—all just another proof of Laura's ability. And throughout the luncheon a new feeling—as if the college were something different, something finer and more worth while than we had dreamed it to be—an idea that now we were really a part of Simmons—a deeper love for its traditions—and a firm determination to uphold its ideals as long as we should wear our college rings.

Sophomore May Day

It was a dull morning—a dull, grey, cheerless morning—that we dragged ourselves out of the depths of sleep to make merry on the lawn. The Seniors found bouquets of flowers at their doors heralding Spring, but outside the air was damp and cold. We huddled together for warmth, but we soon forgot the weather in admiration of the skill and talent displayed by our fellow classmates. For our benefit and that of the Seniors they staged a modernized version of "Pyramus and Thisbe". It was very cleverly written and equally well performed. So was the dance that Bunny Burns and Nancy Schofield did to Mendelssohn's "Spring Song". Maxine La Bounty made a very lovely queen, and there never was a finer king than our Kay—or such a group of royal attendants. And we are sure there never was such strawberry shortcake, cake hidden under berries and smothered by cream. It made up for the dull, damp weather; it made up for our lack of sleep; and it made up for the spring that seemed so late in coming. We carried the memory of it all with us through the day, as we went to a long round of classes. It may have been the white dresses we wore that hastened warm weather along; it may have been the half pagan entertainment on the lawn; it may have been merely the psychology of it all; but somehow or other after that early morning's celebration, Spring came more quickly. Perhaps she felt she had to—so much had been done in her honor.

Freshmen-Junior Picnic

—"Faithful and true
We'll be to you;
Forever more we'll be
Just pals—good old pals."—

Picnic-ing never loses its thrill for those who love to cut loose from the usual forms of recreation and just have a good time, with old clothes on, and plenty of food, fine weather and all outdoors. And Nantasket is a perfect place for picnics—especially in May—The beach is so wide; the sand is so smooth; the ride is just long enough; the water is just cold enough; the sun just bright enough; there is no crowd; and there is the "Nancy" to climb over and explore. Something there is about it all that seems to strengthen the bond of friendship between the sister classes, making us even greater "pals" than before.

We have been to Nantasket twice now. Long ago we took our Junior sisters on a Saturday in early May (that is, we meant to take them; but some of them missed the boat, and had to come down in Polly Emery's car). The weather was showery, but it failed to dampen our high spirits. After a bountiful lunch on the sand, we climbed all over the "Nancy", and almost left Skoo up in the rigging. We brought home from the picnic many souvenirs of a good time—sunburn and lame muscles and some pictures of Shirley Hathaway behind the wheel of the boat.

Then we went again last year as Juniors and had another glorious day. No rain this time; and the day was warmer than before. Swimming was more fun, and we found lots of other things to do, too.—Ask Bo about the Marathon race on the beach down to the "Nancy"—and about some of the pictures that were taken that day.—Then we remembered the amusements and there was a last minute call for food. We found there was still a thrill in a merry-go-round, and more than one in some other things. Finally the whistle blew and the boat left, bringing home some rather tired girls, who were, nevertheless, very happy, and not too tired to dance to the music (?) all the way to Boston.

The Weddings of 1930

From the local paper for November 11, 1926, we quote the following:—

"At ten o'clock Saturday morning, November 6, Miss 1930 (Julia Nichols) became the bride of Mr. 1928 (Mr. H. Burr), before a large gathering of friends. At the north end of the hall an altar was arranged, decorated with candles, green boughs and yellow and white chrysanthemums. The wedding march was played by an orchestra under the leadership of the celebrated Miss Lois Piper, and the "Pal Song" was sung by the Lawrence-Elm duet. The bride was charmingly attired in white crepe de chine, and carried a huge bouquet of white carnations—The Rev. V. Britting performed the ceremony. The bridegroom's family, Mr. and Mrs. Ringwood-Osmers and their daughter and two sons, and the bride's family, Mr. and Mrs. Ines-May with their son and daughter, were in town for the event, as was the groom's aunt, Miss Bennett. Most notable among the guests, however, were the members of the royal family, their two guards, and the President of the United Dorms, who made a special effort to attend the nuptials.—At the reception which followed the ceremony,—the wedding cake was cut by the bride and shared by the entire bridal party. The couple slipped away during the dancing, but not before they had been wished all sorts of good wishes for their future happiness by those present."

And from the society column of the same paper for November 8, 1928, we cut this clipping:—

"Last Saturday morning at ten o'clock, Miss 1932 (Gretchen Lorenz) became the bride of Mr. 1930 (B. Ives). The Freshman-Junior Wedding was a fashionable event this season. Among those present were Col. Lindbergh and his mother, Will Rogers, and Harold Lloyd. The bride, who carried a lovely bouquet of white roses, was beautiful in her white satin dress, trimmed with white lace. The bridesmaids, flowergirls, and ring bearer made an attractive group, and the ushers were unusually handsome. After the singing of the Pal Song and the triumphant Mendelssohn's march, the bride cut her cake and everyone enjoyed the wedding breakfast of ice cream and cake."

—and this item from "Pepy's Diary"

—"To a wedding the other day of a friend of mine, and quite overcome by the ushers, especially one as did wear his silk hat at a most fetching angle and whisk his little moustache at me. Do think his name was a double one, though I do not much care now since I saw him rolling his eyes around in his head at one of those bridesmaids and do think him a silly frivolous young man."—

A very delightful part of the festivities was the Stag Dinner held on the evening previous to the wedding day by the gentlemen of the bridal party in honor of the groom. Red carnations, some very attractive waitresses, the best of food and cigarettes and music, all did much to relieve the agony of high collars and newly dyed shoes, unnatural haircuts and stiff shirt fronts.

Junior Promenade

MAY 3, 1929

HOTEL SOMERSET

Anticipated for three and a half years it was well worth waiting for. Every one seemed to cooperate in making it the very best ever. We even had an extra edition of the "News" come out at dinner to be sold by special newsboys and pert newsgirls.

Our favors and place cards were waiting for us—and do you remember how many things you discovered you could wear with that cute blue purse and how thrilled you were when you saw that the "one and only" was actually using the black leather wallet the next time you saw him? Whether we had fish or roast chicken, there was a glamor over everything from the fruit cocktail to the demi tasse that made the dinner a perfect beginning for that heavenly evening.

Our gowns and the music—Ruby Newman's—and the general atmosphere were enough to make us sure that this was a bit of paradise on earth; but when the lights dimmed and the seniors appeared in their gowns to sing to us from the balcony that last serenade with the echoes fading softly into the distance—then was the perfect moment.

Some of us went home as soon as the dance was over at two o'clock; we had big plans for the next day. Some of us looked in at the other proms; some left for house parties; some went to the tea dance at the Refectory the next afternoon—whatever we did, wherever we went, we all cherish happy memories of a glorious week-end.

Hobo Party

October 8, 1930

At the annual Senior house-warming, hoboes of every nation on earth and even a fair representation from Heaven and the other place turned out for the gala celebration in the basement of South Hall. The setting amid the wash tubs and ironing boards and borrowed portable victrolas and bright crepe paper decorations and favors and noise makers was a striking conglomeration.

The first prize went to Anstiss Bowser who modeled what the well-dressed wild man from the Figi Isles would be wearing in sack cloth and matted hair for the current season. Such a ferocious looking creature! And there were representatives from other far off lands as well as the plain freight-riding local species of bums—all united in a fraternal spirit and ready to have a good time.

The peanut search and the one-legged race were fun, but the big event of the evening was the race to climb on a stool, eat a cracker, and whistle. This is a very difficult feat, and we wonder if the winner had any special formula obtained from her long years of Home Ec and Dietetics study to help overcome the awful dryness of the mouth.

No hobo party would be complete without its "hand-out", and it was no time at all before the feast of popcorn and apples, doughnuts and cider disappeared. Luck was with us, and it was still early in the cider season; so for once we drank our fill—manners forgotten after the fashion of hoboes.

Ye Christmas Dinner

The Great Hall is bright with Christmas cheer and the gleam of candlelight on the long dark tables. Outside the air is crisp and clear; within, all is warmth and jollity. Over the snow comes the sound of Christmas carols, and the Lord of the Manor bids the singers enter and partake of the feast. Down the Hall they come, candles held high, and the light falling on the red of their cloaks and on the bright gowns of the many guests about them.

The Boar's head is seen at the doorway, borne aloft by the two small pages. The singers hail its appearance with an ancient carol. Then the guests begin to eat—and a real art they find it; for they have only a knife and a spoon. The jesters run through the Hall with much jingling of bells, adding to the mirth and the fun. Everywhere is joy and peace and the Christmas spirit.

Then in comes the flaming Christmas pudding—best of all. And after that, the strolling players come; and we hear again the old, old tale of Saint George and the Dragon.

It is all such a delightful custom, and one which seems to belong so very specially to Simmons, that we consider it one of the happiest hours our Sundial records.

Step Singing

"When the starlit evening shadows,
And the springtime days draw near,
You can hear the classes singing
Near the steps they hold so dear.
O the songs that we remember
Are the songs that have been made
Just for us to sing together
At the vine-clad colonnade.

When the riverway is changing
With sunset colors bright,
And the elmtrees' leaves a-quiver
Peer down from lofty height,
You can hear the classes singing,
Near the steps they hold so dear,
The songs that shall re-echo
In our hearts from year to year."

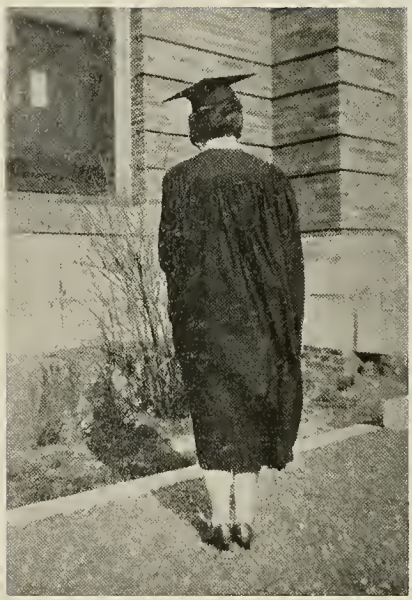
MICROCHAOS



Sally Simmons

"With malice toward none, with charity toward all", the Microcosm staff publishes this information concerning Sally Simmons as it has been reported to them by her classmates.

Sally is one of those unusual girls who possess the efficiency and the ability of the perfect (secretary, home economist, librarian, scientist, social service worker, public health nurse, landscape architect) along with the charm and grace of the perfect hostess. Sally has a lovely smile and a merry laugh. She is the kind of friend that stands by you till the end, always ready for fun, but very sympathetic and understanding in your serious moods.

(Choice of endings:)

1. We know Sally will make a success of whatever she does in the future, but we feel sure she won't be a (secretary, home economist, librarian, scientist, social service worker, public health nurse, landscape architect) all her life. Here's to Sally!

2. (a.) Sally has made these four years of college very happy for the rest of us, and we only regret that the time has been so short.

(b.) Sally didn't come to us until the beginning of our (Sophmore, Junior, Senior) year, but it wasn't long before she found a place in our hearts; and now we wonder how we ever got along without her.

(a. and b.) We wish you great success in the future, Sally, and we know it is waiting for you!

Sally Simmons Applies for Work

Name: Sally Simmons.

Address: Main Street, Middletown.

Position Wanted:

Household economist, secretary, librarian, scientist, social service worker, public health nurse, landscape architect.

Geographical Limitations:

Mother objects to South America, Africa, Asia, Australia, and points west; but I will accept a position anywhere.

Salary Expected:

Dad says he will pay anyone who will take me to work for them; I think I am worth at least $3,000.00 a year to the right man, but I might accept less.

Positions You Have Held for Which You Received Pay:

During the campaign to raise money for the Wing Fund I shined shoes, mended stockings, carried books, did errands, typewrote long themes and sold sandwiches. I have also worked in the Five and Ten Cent Store during the Christmas season and been a councillor at camp in the summer.

Positions You Have Held for Which You Received NO Pay:

Waitress at Sophomore Luncheon and at Class Day Supper; Sophomore Corridor Committee; Junior Shush Committee; Senior Lunchroom Committee; Advertising Manager and Business Manager of any college paper; Clean Up Committees for every occasion; Hockey Teams and Basketball Teams; Simmons College Life Guard.

What Publications Have You Written for?

Three years for the Review Poetry Contest; one year for the Review Prose Contest-short stories for the Boston Post and letters to their "Sewing Circle"; write-ups for Mic (all of them); class news items for "News".

To Whom May We Write for References?

Simmons College Wing Fund Committee; Woolworth's.

May Telegrams Be Sent Collect?

Yes. To Mr. S. S. Simmons.

Will You Let Us Know if You Accept Another Position?

Certainly.

Will You Answer all Communications Promptly?

Immediately.

Signed: Sally Simmons.

Sally Simmons Joins the Debating Club

Four years ago we appeared in Simmons College as a new class, the class of 1930, conceived in the freshness of youth and dedicated to the proposition that we could all graduate with A's. Now we are running the last great lap of the race, testing whether our class or any class so conceived and so dedicated can long endure without being disillusioned. We are meeting after our last marks are out; we have come to dedicate a sacred bonfire as the final resting place of those government notes we took in order that our grades might be higher. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this; but for deeper reasons we cannot so dedicate them, we cannot thus easily burn them, we cannot waste production so. Our fellow classmates—the flunked and unflunked who struggled here—have consecrated this course far above our poor power to add or detract. The underclasses will little note nor long remember what we are saying here; but if we leave them our government notes, they can never forget what we did here. It is for us who passed the course rather to pass on the tools of our production and dedicate them to the poor unfortunates who count government among the untouched tasks remaining before them. Then to these honored notes we bid them take increased devotion, to this course to which we gave our last full measure of devotion; and we here highly resolve that these notes shall not have been taken in vain; and that the class of 1931, under our advice, shall have a brighter future; and that this government of the United States, by Dr. Varrell, for our benefit shall not cause any more to perish in transit.

In Memoriam

I remember, I remember,
  The greenhouse and the cats,
The little room inside where we
  Could leave our coats and hats.

On mornings very early,
  Before the heat was up,
We'd come to draw the digestive tract
  Of the dear little dogfish pup.

The New Wing is a wondrous place,
  But that's another story;
We still regret the passing
  Of the greenhouse in its glory.

We Recommend

Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" and Plutarch's "Lives" to the Class of 1931 for summer reading. These men did a lot of write-ups; but no two are alike. Here's hoping yours won't be.

That 1934 cherish carefully the pictures that Mr. Neill takes of them on registration day, and that they save them to use in Mic when they are Seniors.

That Simmons Athletic Association sponser crew practice on Muddy River for the three upper classes and on the puddle in the back yard for the freshmen. This sport should satisfy a number of "interest groups"—those really interested in boating and those who wish field work in life-saving.

Competitive speeches by the faculty in Assembly—each speaker limited to three minutes, and three speakers scheduled for each day. The remaining time to be spent in consideration and deliberation of the relative merits of the speeches and in singing college songs.

Closed cabinets opposite Room 217 in the main corridor beyond the bulletin board to replace the glass ones. These cabinets contain some very interesting exhibits from Dennison Company and points beyond and are so fascinating to the students that they block traffic along this corridor between classes and add to the work of the corridor committee. The cabinets, we suggest, should be locked all the time except during exam week, on Founder's Day and on Saturdays until 1:00. (Another suggestion has been made that this embryonic museum be placed in the new wing, in a room reserved for this purpose and be only open to the public on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1:00 until 4:00 at fifty cents admission and on Sundays open free to the public from 1:00 until 4:00. All money made should go, we feel, to Press Board for the purpose of buying them a new blackboard.)

That a study be made by the advanced science students as to which are more graceful, the commuters or the dorm girls. The editors feel that the advantage lies with the girls who give such a large portion of their time to exercise on streets cars and busses, on trolleys and on trains, and who spend so many waking hours in an agony of timetables and waiting rooms.

That the Congressional Record be placed on the Summer Reading List.

We Suppose That Long After We Leave Simmons

The freshmen will worry about the arithmetic exam.
Some people will do their summer reading before the middle of September.
There'll be standing room only at the class basketball games.
The lunchroom will still be a seething mass of hungry girls who push and fight and struggle in line and shout and holler all the time they are eating lunch.
Someone will say "Sh" if you open your mouth in the corridor during exams.
There will still be people who insist upon racing the speaker out of Assembly.
People will still keep reserved books out of the library after nine o'clock in the morning.
Girls will manage to live through two whole years and part of a third just in anticipation of Prom.
The college will somehow exist.

A Few Things That We Have Learned At College

How John Simmons happened to found a college.
And how he did it.
Why he did it.
"It is not a question of whether a thing 'will do' or not; it is a question of whether it is your best work."
What's wrong with the Simmons College Lunchroom.
How to be quiet in the corridors during exams.
How to model with plasticene.
The percentage composition of milk.
The number of stairs from the main building up to the first floor of the west wing.
How interested the whole college is in the interclass basketball and hockey games.
How to play "Fruit Basket."
To use the stairs on either side of Information to go up and the stairs on the other side to come down.
How to reach the bulletin board between classes.
What a blue card means.
How many cuts the Seniors are allowed.
There is no such thing as "spring fever."
"You understand? Do I make it clear? Do you see? Can you understand it?"
Take this slowly; accuracy counts for more than speed.
Endurance is a virtue, especially in lab or tabulations.

AND WHEN HE'S OUR AGE, WHAT?

Mother—"Tommy, wouldn't you like to have a pretty cake with five candles on it for your birthday?"
Tommy—"I think I'd rather have five cakes and one candle, Mama."

—Paddington Mercury.

WHAT CUT, FOODS 12?

A lady was entertaining the small son of her married friend.

"Are you quite sure you can cut your meat, Willy?" she asked after watching him a moment.

"Oh, yessum," he replied without looking up. "We often have it as tough as this at home."

—The Lyre.

FOR THE PSYCHOLOGY STUDENTS INTERESTED IN HANDEDNESS

Old lady—"If you really want work—Farmer Gray wants a right-hand man."

Wanderer—"Jus' my luck, lidy—I'm left-'anded."

—Passing Show.

FRENCH, RUSSIAN, OR MAYONNAISE?

Little Marvin found a button in his salad.

He remarked: "I suppose it fell off while the salad was dressing."

—Christian Register.

SIMMONS LIFE SAVING CORPS, ATTENTION

Would-be-suicide: "Don't rescue me. I want to die."

Swimmer: "Well, you'll have to postpone it; I want a life-saving medal."

—Pathfinder.

STATION ANNOUNCEMENT

Little girl (radio fan, disturbed at her prayers by scratching on the screen door)—"Please stand by, God, while I let the cat out."

—The Pathfinder.

EVEN A DIETITIAN COULD DO THAT

Medical Professor—"What would you do in the case of a person eating poisonous mushrooms?"

Student—"Recommend a change of diet."

—Watchman-Examiner (Baptist).

SHAKESPEARE UP TO DATE

Teacher—"What did Juliet say when she met Romeo in the balcony?"

Student—"Couldn't you get seats in the orchestra?"

—Boston Transcript.

THAT TRAMP AGAIN

Tramp—"Have you a piece of cake, lady, to give a poor man who hasn't had a bite to eat for two days?"

Lady—"Cake? Isn't bread good enough for you?"

Tramp—"Ordinarily, yes, ma'am, but this is my birthday."

—Pitt Panther.

A NEW KIND OF BACTERIA

Bettie (just home from a holiday in Egypt)—"And, Auntie, it was so interesting; the tombs and pyramids and things were all covered with hieroglyphics."

Aunt Louisa—"Oh, dear—I hope you didn't get any on you, child."

—Everybody's Weekly.

SCARCELY PERCEPTIBLE

"Did you say your fiancé stammered?"

"Yes, but you only notice it when he speaks."

—Buen Humor (Madrid).

FOR PILGRIM HOUSE AND THE LUNCHEON COURSE

Q.—May lettuce be eaten with the fingers?

A.—No. The mouth is generally used.

Q.—How do you tell which is your side dish of spinach?

A.—Don't be silly. Who wants to?

Q.—What would be the proper thing to say if, in carving the duck, it should skid off the platter and into your neighbor's lap?

A.—Be very courteous. Say, "May I trouble you for that duck?"

Etiquette column in the Trouble Shooter
(Naval Air Station, San Diego.)

IT SOUNDS FAMILIAR

"You who are addicted to sesquipedalianism, read these bombastic sentences. On account of his valetudinarianism and indefatigable mental processes of prestidigitation and tergiversation, the proletarian class began to suspect his honorificabilitudinitatibus.

Are you insinuating that your pusillanimous transmogrification was occasioned by that insignificant quadruped?

Consult an unabridged dictionary—or try to type it in a hurry.

WERE THEY PLAYING "FRUIT BASKET"?

Two elderly music-lovers were discussing the latest number by the Symphony Orchestra, trying to decided just what the piece had been. One was sure it was Schubert's "Nocturne". The other was equally sure it was Liszt's "Rhapsody".

"Ah," said one of the women, as she spied a sign on the wall, "there is a program. I will go over and see what it was." She came back and reported: "We are both wrong. It was a Refrain from Spitting."

—Boston Daily Globe.

Whatever trouble Adam had
No man, in days of yore,
Could say when he had told a joke,
"I've heard that one before."
